Reconciliation begins with education

KAIROS & Legacy of Hope networks mobilize to advance full implementation of Indigenous history in public schools

KAIROS Mass Blanket Exercise on Parliament Hill, June 2015.

“I never knew.”

This comment is often made by Canadians who participate in the Blanket Exercise, an interactive KAIROS workshop that teaches the history of Canada from an Indigenous perspective. They confide that they never knew about the Indian Residential Schools System (IRSS), which the Canadian government funded and several churches ran for 130 years.

One reason they never knew is because the IRSS and other impacts of colonialism are seldom taught in schools. Indigenous peoples continue to suffer from the abuse that seven generations of Indigenous children experienced during this national project of assimilation.

The Truth and Reconciliation Commission of Canada (TRC), KAIROS Canada and the Legacy of Hope Foundation want to redress this legacy. The TRC released 94 Calls to Action, in June 2015 after a five year cross Canada consultation process. One of them, Call to Action 62.i, urges each province and territory to “make age-appropriate curriculum on residential schools, Treaties, and Aboriginal peoples’ historical and contemporary contributions to Canada a mandatory education requirement for Kindergarten to Grade Twelve students.”

KAIROS has partnered with Legacy of Hope to advance this Call through a campaign called Education for Reconciliation. They created a Report Card on Provincial and Territorial Curriculum on Indigenous Peoples as a baseline to assess progress in achieving reconciliation through education in schools across Canada.

“We applaud the provincial and territorial governments that have pledged their commitment to mandatory curriculum and urge all educational ministries to work with Indigenous educators to fully implement the TRC’s Call to Action 62 as soon as possible,” says Jennifer Henry, KAIROS’ Executive Director.

To date, no province receives top marks. Only Saskatchewan and Alberta receive passing grades. The Northwest Territories includes the residential schools in its grade 10 curriculum, but more needs to be done to ensure that it fully implements TRC #62.i.

Since November 2015, KAIROS and Legacy of Hope have mobilized their networks to gather signatures on petitions calling on provincial and territorial governments to fully implement this call. They will deliver these petitions to the ministers of education and provincial representatives in the spring.

“We can end the ignorance about our history in one generation if governments ensure that all Canadian students learn about the experiences of Indigenous peoples in Canada,” says Henry. “If we teach our children the truth, they can be leaders in the critically important work of bringing about reconciliation in our country.”

Education means not only learning a history that many are never taught but, for non-Indigenous people, unlearning attitudes and behaviours that contribute to intolerance and racism. Canadians and Indigenous peoples in Canada were often taught that Indigenous cultures are inferior to those of Europeans.

“As a result of the efforts of our networks, we expect to see vast improvements in our reports cards by the end of 2016,” says Henry.

Report Card: Northwest Territories Curriculum on Indigenous Peoples

NWT uses The Residential School System in Canada: Understanding the Past – Seeking Reconciliation – Building Hope for Tomorrow package as a mandatory part of the Grade 10 curriculum. All teachers in the territory have received professional development on the residential school legacy, even those who do not teach the course.

Quotable

"The history of Indian Residential Schools in this country, and what needs to be done to address the legacy of them, is not just something for and about Aboriginal people. As a country, this chapter of our history belongs to all of us. As its citizens, we all own our past, just as we will all own its future." — Marie Wilson, TRC Commissioner

"We need to remember those children who never came home, the unmarked graves at many of the Indian Residential Schools, and think about those parents who never knew what happened to their children. This is what you need to be teaching your children, your grandchildren, your great grandchildren. You need to be teaching it in your schools and you need to make it a priority. There's no choice; that every single Minister of Education is implementing the real history of Canada's colonization." - Ellen Gabriel, Kanehsatà:ke Mohawk Territory, Indigenous Human Rights Activist
